The Gas Light Players company, owned by Miss Virginia Hill and based in Essex Park, Colorado, chose Debby after she was seen performing at UCLA in a production given by members of the musical comedy class which she has been taking on the Westwood campus during the past year.

Debby began singing six years ago under the direction of her father, and has for three years actively participated in the music and drama departments at Reseda High. She has also taken other classes at either San Fernando Valley State College or UCLA.

With all this experience behind her, she hopes to begin a successful professional career immediately after graduation from Reseda
