

Teenagers Influential at Governor's Conference

The improvement in quality of the high school Drivers Education programs was one of the many important recommendations brought up at Governor

FUTURE LEGISLATOR? Jean Weaver, A-12, recently visited Governor Brown's Traffic Safety Conference and assisted in recommendations for legislation.

Brown's Traffic Safety Conference in Sacramento on Nov. 17-19, according to Jean Weaver, Reseda High School's Representative.

and influence of these recommendations: at last year's conference a very controversial subject was put up for legislation and it was passed as a law, which now states that those persons who will be eligible for drivers licences in 1967 will either have had to pass a course in drivers training or have attended a recognized driving school. If the person has not yet done so, he must wait until he has reached the age of 18.
